There is hotness there, it is true. And opera!tasticness.

But I commenced to laugh hysterically at the first episode, when I realized Our Heartthrob was undercover, with an assumed name...and living in his own place and going openly to work at The Spy Building every day. Who was he hiding his identity from? Oh, right--his girlfriend!

Don't mind me--I am cruel and heartless and have a mean sense of humor. g

I might even let you borrow it sometimes. That is, if I were to have one.

Oh, she's not so bad. That space alien in the cape has turned her head, is all.

When I decided to be born in February, I must not have realized I'd own a motorcycle. Winter storms play hell with...

Pfft. The MI-5 crew were marginally more competent than that. This was clearly the work of Sydney Bristow.

No, no, this is the Overt Secret Service, whose job is to divert the attention of the media from the Secret Secret Service. And undermine Liberal Governments.

I just keep thinking about how many things had to go wrong to make that happen, and how many people had to do them. Not return document to the filing cabinet with the red bar across it--check. Take document out of building past security checkpoint--check. Display document openly in public place--check. Forget to put document back in briefcase when THE ENTIRE TIME YOU OUGHT TO BE FEELING AS IF THAT ORANGE FOLDER IS BURNING YOUR DAMNED FINGERS, THAT'S HOW CONSCIOUS

YOU OUGHT TO BE THAT YOU'RE HOLDING CLASSIFIED DOCUMENTS--yeah, this is the point at which we start looking into Mr. Sloppy's background to see when he was turned.

Because you can't hold that job, at that level, and not know SEKURTEE. UR DOIN IT WRONG.

Somebody did it again!:

More confidential government files were found on a train earlier this week, it has been revealed.

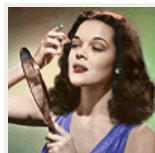

The Independent on Sunday says it was handed the documents, which cover fighting global terrorist funding, drugs trafficking and money laundering.

The documents apparently include briefing notes for a meeting of the international Financial Action Task Force (FATF) to be held in 11 Downing Street next week.
